ABORTIVE ATTEMPTS.

The Enterprise in reply to an article in the Journal of last Saturday upon a Constitutional Convention, says:

The only valid reason against remedying such defects as require remedy, by amendment, was the uncertainty heretofore attending any effort in that direction. We believed that our Legislature should be able to submit amendments to the people in a constitutional manner, but could not deny the fact that there had been an exasperating series of failures. We could blame nobody for doubting the promise of better success in the future, and on that account were not at all fixed in opinion against a convention.

We can imagine nothing that has since occurred to remove the Enterprise's doubt concerning the uncertainty of the necessary relief being afforded by legislative amendments, unless it be the late decision of the Supreme Court upon those ratified by the people at the special election in 1889.

Amendments have to be adopted in some shape before they can be submitted to the Courts for their decision, and although attempts have been made at every session of the Legislature for more than twenty years those of 1889 were the first that ever reached a stage where they could be subjected to judicial test. All previous attempts failed before the maturing of the proposed amendments to a condition to be passed upon by the people or a judicial body, as would undoubtedly have been the fate of the few that are now a part of the fundamental law, but for the engendered zeal displayed by the lottery men to push through their gambling scheme. A few amendments of minor importance, as the result of twenty years' effort in that direction, appear to us a very slim basis upon which to build hopes for the future. The Enterprise makes the mistake of basing its judgment upon the exception in this case, instead of the rule. It furthermore fails to allude to the fact shown by the Journal that even if practicable at all, it would require four years to accomplish by the amendment plan what could be done in six months, by calling a convention.

We are surprised that the Enterprise has never heard of the communistic argument being advanced in opposition to a convention as it has been strongly urged by persons close to it in social, political and business relations. In fact it has been persistently argued before the Board of Trade and we fear with considerable effect upon a few of the members of that body. But the masses of the people will not be so easily secured. They understand the situation and realize the necessity for prompt, thorough and efficient action. They are sick and tired of waiting for the relief which never materializes from legislative action, and they will take the matter into their own hands and avail themselves of the means afforded them of securing such constitutional changes as experience has shown them cannot be effected in any other way than through the agency of a convention called for that special purpose.

STICKS TO IT.

The very fact that in the event that Judge Fitzgerald, or any other District Judge, should resign his office to-day, be elected to the office of Governor on the 4th day of November next and take possession of his office on the first Monday in January, 1891, after the expiration of the term for which he was elected to a judicial office, is conclusive evidence that the Journal is wrong, as he could not possibly take possession of the office of Governor until after the expiration of the term for which he was elected Judge.—Elko Independent.

Oh, for a thousand horse power trip hammer to beat a plain proposition into that editorial cabana. The Constitution prohibits the election of a District Judge to any non-judicial office during the Judge's term for which he was elected. His resignation would not affect the term for which Judge Fitzgerald was elected, which expires on the first Monday in January 1891. The fact that he would not take his office until that time cuts no figure whatever in the case. The election comes off during "the term for which he was elected," and if Judge Fitzgerald was to run for Governor and receive every vote in the State, he could not hold the office, any more than he could hold a County Commission in Eureka if he should be appointed to it to-day by Governor Stevenson.

The Mormons are now seeking to extend their colonies in Arizona, where they already have 10,000 of their people who control the politics of several counties. This community now extends to seven States and Territories following the backbone of the Continent from our northern to our southern frontier, with outlying bodies in Mexico and Canada, and still they are spreading, and their numbers are swelled by immigration. The brightest spot in this dark picture is the progress of Gentile life at Salt Lake. The real estate boom is connected with that development. The strongholds of Mormonism are the agricultural communities and small towns.

A San Francisco boy of eighteen is said to have become demoralized from excessive cigarette smoking. There have been several instances reported from the East of death or insanity from that cause, and in many places local legislation has been invoked to break up cigarette smoking by youngsters. Judging by the flavor and aroma of the average cigarette, its habitual use argues a degree of mental defectiveness, or at least a disease of the sensory nerves.

PROGRESS AND SILVER.

The Denver Field and Farm remarks:

We in Colorado bank on silver. It is our blarney stone. We have possibly expected it to do too much for us in the future. It has not done much for Nevada in the past. That State seems to be the silver State. Not that it produces more of that precious material than does Colorado, but it is all that it does produce. And judging from the poor progress Nevada has made, we conclude that silver will never build up a great State by itself. That State from 1880 to 1890 increased but 9,000 people. Denver alone in that time jumped forward nearly 80,000.

Remarking upon what has been shown by the census returns, says the Boston Herald—that organ of blue bellies and baked beans: "Nevada is not fit to be a State in this Union now, and, what is worse, it probably never will be. The only remedy for this unfortunate state of affairs is in either annexing it to some other State, or increasing its area by including some Western Territory to unite with it. Utah is, perhaps, the most appropriate for such a purpose." While we agree, to some extent with the great trumpeter, we are constrained to remark that the same rule that would cut out Nevada would cut out one or more of the New England States, or cause them to unite and make a single respectable one. What asks New England is she lates to see Western Senators?

We will admit that it does look a little ridiculous that 45,000 people dwelling in mountains and living in holes should have as large a representation in the United States Senate as the great State of New York, or the populous and congested Commonwealth of Massachusetts. But then the founders of our Republic so ordered it, and we of the West will try and stand it until all the Territories are numbered with the family of the States.

STANFORD IGNORED.

Why His Name Was Not Mentioned in the Convention.

The Sacramento Bee says: "It will be seen that the Platform and Resolutions entirely ignore all mention of the name of Senator Leonard Stanford. There are two reasons for that. One is that to have eulogized him would have been to have thrown a firebrand into the convention. George A. Knight, ever on the alert for a row, was primed with an attack upon Stanford, so was a member of the Alameda delegation, and so, it is expected, were one or two others. The wise-heads thought it better to choke these fellows off and give them no show to explode. The other reason was that it would not have looked well to have endorsed Stanford and have omitted giving some words of praise to Morrow. As the latter would be an impossibility, the conclusion was reached not to say anything on the subject."

Eureka Etchings.
Sentinel, August 16.

During the week the Eureka and Palisade railroad shipped 165 tons of ore to the Salt Lake City smelters.

The Sentinel hears on good authority that matters are soon to be put in operation again in the Omandago mine in Safford District near Palisade. A representative of the company is to be up this week to pay off all the back bills, and it is said the company will resume under more favorable auspices than it has hitherto known.

Mrs. Josephine Walcott, of San Francisco, the reputed owner of one half the Joanna mine at Ely, White Pine county, arrived here last Saturday evening by special train from Palisade. She was accompanied by three mining experts, and the entire party left the next morning for the scene of her anticipated great wealth.

The O. P. train that left Palisade last Wednesday night when near Beowawe ran over an unknown man and mangled the body in a most horrible manner. He was supposed to have been a passenger on the train as a baggage check was found in his pocket. Coroner Ajuri left yesterday morning for Palisade to hold an inquest.

The freshest of last Sunday washed down the hillside at the rear of the Eureka Con. reduction works. Considerable damage was done to the furnace arrester, which necessitated the closing down of both of the furnaces for a couple of days. The refinery received a little washing, but not a very damaging one.

"LITTLE BO PEEP had lost her sheep and couldn't tell where to find them." So the old nursery rhyme says, and it goes on to bid her "Leave them alone and they'll come home and bring their tails behind them." All this may be true of lost sheep, but if you have lost your health you cannot afford to leave that alone. It will not come back of its own accord. Some people brag that they ever better about colds. They "let them go the way they came." Alas! too often the victims go—to a consumptive's grave. Until very recently a cure for Consumption, which is a universally acknowledged to be a scourge affecting the lungs, was not known. People have been looking upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. FAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This wonderful remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. It is the most potent tonic or strength restorer, alterative, or blood-cleanser, and nutritive, or food-builder known to medical science. For lingering Coughs, Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Liver Complaint, and Dyspepsia or Indigestion, it is an unequalled remedy.

DR. FAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY cures the worst case no matter how long it has been on hand, by drugging.

A One Eyed Aeronaut in Europe.

It is possible that some of your readers have heard of, if they have not seen, Professor Bartholomew, the aeronaut. He is quite a character; gangling, awkward, rural, but fearless as a lion and as sharp as a tack, he hails from Burr Oak, Mich. Bartholomew accompanied the baseball aggregation on its tour around the world, and here and there he gave balloon ascensions that excited even more curiosity than did the performances of the exponents of our national game. Bartholomew has the misfortune to be a one eyed man, but the misfortune does not occasion him much remorse; it would be hard to find a more cheerful person than he. In Rome he came up to Mr. Lynch, the manager of the excursion party, and said: "Leigh, could you lend me $80?"

"Why, I suppose so," said Lynch. "Well, I wish you could," said Bartholomew. "It would be a great accommodation. Glass eyes are so darned cheap here that it seems as if I ought to stock up on them."

Bartholomew bought $30 worth of glass eyes and he carried them around with him in a baize bag; there were about a peck of them, and they rattled like so many marbles. They were not all the same color, but Bartholomew didn't mind a small matter of that kind. He was too much of a humorist to stick to a detail of that character. He said that when he wore a blue eye he resembled his father's side of the family; a black eye made him look more like his mother's folk.

One day Bartholomew was riding in a hansom cab in London; the horse acted badly and the driver lashed the brute fiercely. Whoever has ridden in a hansom cab knows how awkward it is to have the long lash of the driver's whip dangling in one's eyes. Several times Bartholomew ordered the driver to be more careful in the use of his whip. Reaching his destination, Bartholomew quietly took out his glass eye, stepped out of the cab upon the sidewalk, and holding out the eye in his open hand he said sternly to the cabman: "I warned you repeatedly, yet see what you have done! Wait here now, sir, until I have summoned a policeman."

To the befuddled cabman there was an awful reality in all this. He did not wait for any further parley—oh, no, not he. Lashing his horse into a gallop he made off as fast as ever he could, the worst scared cabby in all the United Kingdom! By this quiet ebullition of humor the pilgrim from Burr Oak evaded payment of a five shilling fare and achieved deserved fame for having got the better of a London cab driver.—Eugene Field's Letter in Chicago Times.

Polly and the Minister.

Sister Robbins lay upon her sick bed watching the clock, the slant of the sunbeams and occasionally talking to her Polly—a wise looking gray parrot with glittering eyes and brilliant scarlet tail. It would be better, perhaps, to say that she replied to Polly, for the parrot was by far the most talkative.

There came a rap at the door of the room. "Whoa!" said Polly. "Come in," said Sister Robbins.

The visitor entered and proved to be the Methodist minister. Polly crept up to Mrs. Robbins and cuddled close up to the lady's neck, laying her gray pate close beside her mistress' cheek. After some conversation the minister proposed to Sister Robbins that they have "a season of prayer," and accordingly knelt by her bedside and with closed eyes and devout voice began to pray.

Polly's eyes glittered more than ever. She crept unnoticed from her place of refuge and with slow lifted claws and noiseless step over the white counterpane went close to the unconscious minister. She scanned him meditatively, and then when her head was so near his that you would have thought his ear was in danger of being snipped off, she suddenly cried out in the clearest tones: "What in the world are you doing?"

Sister Robbins finds it hard to convince the minister that they have family prayers. He says Polly's evidence is against her.—Wide Awake.

Broken Hearted.

The sorrows of childhood are real enough while they last. Happily, however, they are not only brief, but often so much on the surface that even the sufferer hardly knows what they are about.

A small girl ran to her mother the other day, sobbing as if her heart would break, and burying her head in her lap cried out that she would never, never play with her sister Emeline again.

"Why, my child, what has Emeline done?" the mother asked.

"Oh, mamma, she has said something that has just broken my heart," the child declared, sobbing yet more violently.

"What was it?"

The child paused a moment in the midst of her wild weeping as if trying to think; then her tears burst forth afresh.

"Oh, mamma," she cried, "I can't remember what it was, but it was so cruel that she has broken my heart."—Youth's Companion.

A Successful American Artist.

Hubert Herkimer, the lately elected Royal Academician, whose picture the "Last Master" has made him famous, was at one time an "Ohio boy," although born in Bavaria. His parents brought him to Ohio when he was 2 years old, but they were not successful there and returned later to England. There he was naturalized and went to Munich. From Munich he returned again to England, where he began to make comic drawings. He was employed for a time at the London Graphic. His father was a wood carver and his mother a music teacher.—New York World.

They Have to Come Down.

There are no less than thirty different religious castes in India, and when the railroads were first established no two castes would ride in the same coach. The natives found it inconvenient, however, and now all sorts of castes mix up for a journey, but offset it at the end by calling each other dogs and infidels.—Detroit Free Press.

NAY AND YEA.

A pretty little maiden
Lives across the street from me;
Her father is a captain
Who is gone away to sea.
I often need to her
And she does not say me nay;
In fact I think she likes it,
Though she does not say me yea.

I met her in the wood road—
She had been walking there alone,
And had stopped to rest a moment
By the path, upon a stone.
So I sat me down beside her
And she did not say me nay;
In fact I think she liked it,
Though she did not say me yea.

I met her one bright morning
Walking down the village street;
Her dress it was so pretty,
Her face it was so sweet.
That I walked along beside her
And she did not say me nay;
In fact I think she liked it,
Though she did not say me yea.

We were wand'ring one evening
In the lane beyond the hill;
The air was calm and fragrant,
The place was cool and still;
And I took her hand a moment,
She did not say me nay,
Then I claimed her mine forever!
And at last she said me yea.

—Emilia Elliott in New York Commercial Advertiser.

Sure to Find Trout There.

H. A. Martin, of Bennington, Vt., has started a somewhat novel enterprise. He has secured a large tract of land right above Bennington in a beautiful woodland valley, erected a hotel and a number of cottages, furnished, and there are numerous trout streams and a large trout lake, plentifully stocked. In it any one can angle by paying so much per pound for their catches. Up on the mountain about one mile there is another large lake on which has been established a hatchery, from which the lake will be thoroughly stocked every season. Fishing privileges can be bought. As this is somewhat of the nature of a club a very attractive lodge has been erected on the shores of the lake for the convenience of the members. A number of gentlemen from Albany are interested in the enterprise.—Burlington Free Press.

The Georgia Type of Fish Story.

Frank O'Bryan, solicitor of the Atlanta district, left his home at Sans Souci at 11 p. m. in his canoe, which was rowed by a negro who had been a body servant to George Washington.

As the day was hot Solicitor O'Bryan reclined upon the stern of the boat with a silk handkerchief in his hand, an end of which was trailing in the water. Feeling a jerk, O'Brien flung the handkerchief inward, to find that he had landed with it a three pound trout, which had attempted to swallow the red end of the handkerchief. The solicitor at once went ashore and had a fish fry all to himself, when he resumed his journey.—Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

How Money Travels About.

Recently several gentlemen met in a hotel at Kingston, Ont. One of them received in change a ten cent piece on which was inscribed the mystic symbols, "H-78." "By Jove!" said he, "here's a ten center that some fellow has marked to see if it will ever come back." "Let me see it," replied a gentleman of the party. "Gentlemen," he said, "my name is Henry Desmond. Twelve years ago, at Halifax, N. S., I marked twenty ten cent pieces as this is marked. This is the third one that has turned up." He offered the owner of the coin $1 for it and got it.—Toronto Globe.

Knew Her Strong Points.

A little 4-year-old girl, a resident of Minnesota's capital city, is not noted for her beauty, though possessed of a very sweet disposition and a remarkably bright mind. She was recently presented to a minister who chanced to be visiting at her home. He took her little face between his two hands and looked down at her in a most scrutinizing manner. She evidently anticipated that her face would not bear the close inspection, as, turning her eyes in the direction of his face, she lisped out: "I'm 'tich' p'etty, Mither Brown, but I'm mighty 'mart."—St. Paul Globe.

Danger in Side Currents.

There are scores of persons who have been "struck by lightning" and have lived. Probably three-fourths of these were more scared than hurt, and nearly all the others were struck by some side current, for light currents accompany the main current in its earthward course, extending over a radius of many feet from the main bolt. These, while comparatively weak, are yet strong enough to stun or otherwise affect a person through whose body they pass.—Boston Globe.

Men at Auction.

A woman of position in London society recently resorted to an original device to decide who should take whom to dinner. The male guests were put up at auction and went to the highest bidder, in imaginary sums, the description of the human wares being hit off wittily by the auctioneer. We may now expect all our Anglomaniacs to follow suit, and some men may feel humiliated to find how cheaply they are held.—West Shore.

A Great Discovery.

The problem on "How to marry on $12 per week" has at last been solved. The way to do it is to issue 800 invitations to the wedding, secure 800 presents from 800 victims, and sell off about 800 to secure capital to run the house on for the next five years.—Detroit Free Press.

He Had Seen It.

"They say a ground hog shows in its habits just what the weather is going to be."

"Very likely."

"You've seen a ground hog of course?" "Gracious! haven't I seen sausages?"—Boston Courier.

Love Is Blind.

Mr. Infrut—Miss Chanse, I love you! Will you be my wife?
Miss Chanse—I am sorry, Mr. Infrut, but—but I am somewhat fastidious in my choice.
Mr. Infrut—Oh, but I am not.—Puck.

W. A. Fogg is a candidate for County Clerk, as per announcement elsewhere. Of his qualifications for the office there can be no question. His Republicanism is of the stalwart, and in all other respects he is a good man, and if nominated by the Republicans will be elected by a handsome majority.

Sincere Offices.

The Silver State, in noticing the resignation of State Treasurer Tully, takes occasion to remark: "Uncle George Tully has hosts of friends who regret to learn of his protracted illness, yet who cannot fail to see the absurdity and unfairness of the law which pays State officers for services rendered exclusively by deputies. George Richards has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation. Mr. Richards as Deputy Treasurer performed all the duties of the office during his principal's illness. Now under our glorious system he can appoint a deputy, whose salary the State will pay, and his himself to the mountains or sea coast and draw his salary regularly."

Two Congressmen to be Elected.

If Mr. Bartine resigns to accept the U. S. Judgeship, as now seems likely, there will be two instead of one Member of Congress to elect in November. The one elected for the full term will not take his seat until the convening of the new Congress in 1891. The short term member would only serve until the 4th of March of that year. As no one would probably care to run for the short term with his successor elected at the same time, and as there is no constitutional or statutory objection, both conventions will doubtless nominate the same candidates for both terms.

Silver Purchase.

The amount of silver offered to the Treasury Department yesterday was 340,000 ounces. The amount purchased was 250,000 ounces, as follows: Four thousand ounces at $1 185, 50,000 ounces at $1 195 and 200,000 ounces at $1 110. The local purchases at the mints from the 13th to the 16th inclusive amount to 82,177 ounces. The price of silver in London yesterday was 58 pence.

Masonic.

Delegations of Masons from Virginia, Carson, Truckee, Wadsworth and other places visited Reno Lodge No. 13 last Saturday night, to witness and participate in work in the third degree. There were nearly a hundred persons present and after the closing of the lodge the visiting brethren were invited to a supper served in the banquet hall, and prepared by the ladies of the Eastern Star.

Justice Court.

J. M. Fisher pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of drunk and disorderly and was assessed $10 for his fun.

Dan West, who was pulled Sunday night for the same offense was afterwards in the same amount.

D. Root, evidently a chronic lush, and harmless drunk, was permitted to skip, upon a promise to depart forthwith for the sunset side of the Sierras.

A MIDNIGHT BIVOUAC.

Predicament of a Couple Returning from a Picnic.

A teamster en route for this place by the Carson wagon road last Saturday night observed a young man and his best girl bivouacked by the roadside with carriage robes for covering. On inquiring it was ascertained that the bivouackers were returning in a buggy from the Caledonian picnic and by some occult means not clearly explained the horse ran away with the vehicle, leaving the couple in the embarrassing predicament in which they were discovered.

Neither the lady nor her escort, however, volunteered to enlighten the teamster as to how it was possible for the horse to run away with the vehicle without taking them along with it, provided they were seated in the buggy at the time. Notwithstanding the fishy odor of their story the good-hearted teamster invited him to ride to town in his conveyance and they gladly accepted the generous offer. So says the Virginia Chronicle.

The Nevada Chautauqua Association.

The first Nevada Chautauqua Association convened at Gleenbrook, Lake Tahoe, Monday, August 11th. The best possible, yet most primitive arrangements have been made for the comfort and entertainment of the guests. An old mill, with all its interior removed, is used as the lecture room. The seats are rough boards laid across low planks, without backs and upholstered with cheese-cloth—one thickness. The rostrum is also of rough boards, but enlivened with evergreen boughs, and the Star Spangled Banner. But what the structure lacks in artistic beauty is made up in the glory of its surroundings and the superexcellence of the literary programme. Here are collected some of the finest minds in America. The visitor who came here expecting to endure one or two stale lectures and to spend the most of his time doing the marvelous wonders of the surrounding Sierra, finds himself a constant devotee at the shrine of learning and eloquence, while the Sierra landscapes have faded into a side light that completes a most entrancing existence. Even board seats may grow endurable and a dismantled mill become transfigured to a temple under the master spell of words. The lectures have been thoroughly good. So far there has not been one but what was above mediocrity. President Quayle, of Baker University, Kansas, the youngest college President in America, and a man that will some day have a fame that one hemisphere cannot hold, is among the lecturers. He is a man on whom nature has been prodigal with her gifts. But thirty years of age, graduated from college in 1885, he is already famous for his profound learning and for his marvelous oratory. It is of a style closely resembling that of Bishop Simpson—a Niagara with all its power, set to its own grand music. His lecture on Westminster Abbey was a superb word-painting—yet more than that; a focused image of the whole English race.

A good second to President Quayle is Dr. Salah W. Brown, a delightful story teller, whose descriptions of the places he has visited is second only to seeing them in reality. He has circumnavigated the globe more than once, and has crossed the Atlantic seven times. Perhaps few men living have enjoyed so many places and climes as Dr. Brown, and few men with more exquisite appreciation.

Bishop Vincent's name carries with it its own weight of wisdom and eloquence to all English speaking people. The founder of the Chautauqua, it was but proper that he should participate in the pioneer association of Nevada, that can boast of the grandest surroundings of any in the world. Dr. Hurst up to the writing has not yet arrived, but is expected every day.

Among the other delightful lecturers are Dr. Rice, Miss Washburn, Mrs. Field's, and a coterie of Nevada's eloquent divines. The first Nevada Chautauqua Assembly has proven a complete success, both so far as the literary program is concerned and, thanks to the generosity of Captain Frey and others, financially. That it is so successful is due to the labors of Secretary Sisson, more than to any one else.

Reno is well represented. M. E. Ward, Mr. Stanley, Mr. Gardner, Ernest Hollingsworth, Mr. Orr, Mr. Gaustead, C. A. Norcross, Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Shoemaker, Miss Gertrude Shoemaker, Miss Lola Joy, Miss Emma Hardack, Misses Dora and Belle Stanley, Miss Margaret Wright, Miss E. Quillie, Miss Megguier, Miss Lena Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Folsom, have been in attendance. C. A. N.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-awt-y

Saunders of Montana.

A correspondent of the Salt Lake Tribune saw Senator Saunders, of Montana, the other day and asked how the lead ore matter stood. "Solidly," said the Senator, "any monkeying with that schedule means the death of this tariff bill. The mining States propose to stand shoulder to shoulder on this question as we did on silver."

Dayton Dots.

Times, Aug. 16th.

Hogs are reported to be dying in Mason valley of cholera.

Mrs. Gordon Rice, of Reno, was visiting friends in Dayton this week.

Dayton was visited by two nice little showers this week and the dust was laid and the atmosphere cooled perceptibly. The hot spell is undoubtedly broken this time, for which thanks are daily extended to the weather clerk.

Longbaugh's wood drive is here and wood is being taken out at the Ophir mill and near the railroad bridge. In the neighborhood of 12,000 cords will be taken out here this year. There are about twenty men at work on the wood now.

The road to Smith valley by way of Eldorado canyon is washed out pretty badly on both sides of the summit and will have to be repaired considerably before it can be traveled. Heavy showers have visited that section of the country almost daily this week.

W. E. Lindsay, the marble man, was in town yesterday. He informs us that he is making preparations to put up a marble mill at the mouth of Red canyon, in this county, to saw marble. He has some good marble ledges in other parts of this county also, and will devote his attention to developing them as soon as he gets his mill to working on a paying proposition.

Truckee Tuttle.

Republican, Aug. 16th.

It is said that the Democrats of Truckee will present a candidate for Assemblyman before the county convention.

The new steam wagon road has been completed from Sardine valley to the Little Truckee, and will be completed to Truckee in thirty days.

The new school house at Truckee is to be one of the finest school buildings in Nevada county. It will contain the largest school room in the county, being 72x36 feet.

C. F. McGlashan is having printed a sixth edition of the History of the Donner Party. The remnant of the fifth edition was destroyed by fire a year ago, since which time there has been a large demand for the book, necessitating another edition.

A Hint to Laggards.

Some people evidently have an idea that a newspaper is like a post office. As it is all right, and a letter dropped into the box before the mail closes, they think it should be the same with a communication or advertisement, if taken to the printing office any time before the paper goes to press. They seemingly are under the impression that it requires no more work or time to prepare a letter for publication than to send it away by mail—but it does all the same, although it is hard to convince a whole lot of people of the fact.

F. & A. M.

The Members of Reno Lodge No. 13, F. & A. M., are requested to meet at their hall to-day (Tuesday) at 1 p. m. sharp to attend the funeral of our late Brother J. H. Husey. By order of the W. M. S. M. JAMISON, Secretary.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses of Hood's Sarsaparilla is equal to a larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiarly its "goodname at home"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by all druggists. $1.50 for 60. Prepared only by C. I. Primary Election

—Of the People on—

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1890,

For the purpose of electing delegates to the said
State Convention the Primary Election to be carried out in compliance with the laws of the State and the instructions of this Committee.

The following test will be required of each and every voter at the said Primary Election:

"I am a citizen of this State and will support the nominees of the Republican party."

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this committee reaffirms the State and National Republican platform of 1888, including the declaration that "the Republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money, and that it "condemns all efforts to demonetize silver."

Resolved, That the persistent neglect of Secretary Whitman to increase the coinage of silver to the maximum of four million dollars per month, coupled with his attempt to influence Congress to pass legislation so as to perpetuate silver demonetization, is a shameful violation of the silver plank of the National Republican platform, an attack upon the rights and interests of the miners, farmers and workers of the land, and an act of party perfidy that should call for his retirement from the councils of an Administration which is pledged to help and not to hinder the demonetiza-tion of silver.

Resolved, That the Republican party of this State is in favor of free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver; that it holds to this principle as a test of party faith and a test of party allegiance;
that it will permit of no abandonment or modification of this doctrine; that let whoever will prove recrancy to the principle of bimetalism it will remain steadfast thereto, and that it invites all voters in Nevada who favor the repeal of the il-luminous interdicted law of 1873 by which silver was demonetized, and who desire the establishment of free and unlimited coinage as the law of the United States of America, to join in electing delegates to a Republican State Convention.
